The End

In 2099, the Blood Plague had ravaged planet Earth, leading to chaos, desperation and global war. The final battle began from space. Our Moon was destroyed. With it, Earth's orbit shifted, the rotation of its core slowed, and the atmosphere leaked away. The blue planet froze, completely enclosed in ice. Only the deep oceans, beneath the surface, offered any hope of life. From this watery darkness, the last remnants of mankind have struggled to survive in the few remaining Sea Bases. But now, as the adventure begins, our crew must face another threat ... from a CREATURE of evolution.

Gary Dean Simpson earned an MFA in Screenwriting from the American Film Institute along with a Bachelor of Science degree in Petroleum Engineering from Texas A&M, has taken ten thousand plane rides and now walks the beach. He grew up on the gritty beaches of South Texas where mother-nature offered an amazing playground for sailing, fishing, windsurfing and hurricanes. He is a father, husband, good friend and wanna-be philosopher.
